At last! It's:

MidiBoxing for TOTAL Newbies!

This page is intended for those who have figured out that a Midibox really is the answer to all of their dreams and wishes, but so far, have no idea which MidiBox best suits them, or where to start.

Mind you, if you've made it this far, then at least you're doing some research.

For this, the MidiBox community thanks you.

On this page, you will eventually find

- Information on what each MidiBox does, of course also linked to the main pages on ucapps.de, the main wiki page etc., where you should have started…
- A brief overview of what hardware is available for each midibox, and what parts/boards you will need to make it happen.
- (By popular demand) A parts list, shown in modules, for the most popular MidiBox designs
    - Ie, answering the common question: I want to build a … , what boards do I need to buy?

This wiki page is a work in progress, please bear with me, or PM me if something needs adding.
